

COVID-19 Policy

PR-04

Protect yourself and others.

For everyone's health and safety, our studio practice has responded by updating our workflow operations and offerings, to best be able to continue to serve you, all while keeping health and safety a top priority.

Be Kind.

Not everyone may be ready to "mingle" and interact as before. We respect all those who continue to stay close to home, and can connect with you quite easily through a virtual setting during regular office hours.

We can accomplish this through:

- Email (as before)
- Phone (as before)
- Zoom (new feature) for those face to face meetings.

We're Making Plans, For Your Future!®

Datum Point Studios is committed in continuing to provide our clients, project partners and customers alike with our value-added building design services through this challenging and evolving pandemic.

We've always worked remotely, so it's not a big leap for us. But as the province gradually 'opens up' we will be enforcing an online 'Distance Design' service policy for the majority of our service offerings.

If an 'in-person' site meeting is required, for your safety as well as ours, we will be exercising the BC Ministry of Health safety guidelines by wearing masks, physically distancing ourselves (min. 2 meters) in an outdoor environment only. All indoor meetings will be held virtually through Zoom until further notice.
